MANAGED COMPLIANCE FOR

HIPAA

Achieve and maintain HIPAA compliance.

Ever since the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) debuted, healthcare organizations nationwide have struggled to comply. The extensive list of HIPAA guidelines is among the strictest data protection regulations in the world and the requirements are constantly changing and growing more complex.

Compliance applies to Covered Entities (doctors and physicians, hospitals, clinics, correctional facilities, drug trial providers) as well as Business Associates:

- Anyone doing business with a covered entity that has or could have access to personal health information
- Sub-contractors and vendors of these business associates

In fact, 49% of all HIPAA related incidents are due to third party vendors. As a medical professional, you are responsible for ensuring your vendors are HIPAA compliant.

HIPAA compliance is not optional—it's the law.

Health records are some of the most valuable items sold on the Dark Web where they can fetch 8x to 10x the price of a credit card. Increasing cyber-threats means that the government has upped its game. HIPAA audits are no longer hypothetical, penalties are serious and can put you out of business.

Fulfilling all of your obligations under HIPAA can be a full-time responsibility. But because the list of rules and regulations under HIPAA are sometimes ambiguous or vague, you run the risk of an accidental violation even if you are unusually vigilant.

Investing in HIPAA compliance is good for your practice

Data breaches have become a fact of life and your practice may be low-hanging fruit for hackers (the vast majority of all cyberattacks target small-to-medium-sized practices). The lost trust and reputational damage done by a data breach is often irreparable. Ensuring HIPAA compliance not only helps you avoid stiff penalties, it also significantly reduces the likelihood of a catastrophic security event.

We can help get you there

Managed Compliance from Data Networks helps you get and stay compliant with HIPAA requirements.
